Mr. George is a civil litigation attorney whose practice focuses on complex civil litigation, including the defense of healthcare professionals, medical practices, and other entities involved in professional negligence and liability claims. Mr. George has extensive experience in all phases of civil litigation and has obtained favorable jury verdicts and appellate decisions on behalf of his clients.

Mr. George's attention to detail and creative problem-solving skills make him an effective trial attorney who provides value for his litigation clients. He has represented clients in malpractice claims, employment disputes, and commercial matters in both state and federal courts. In addition to his litigation experience, Mr. George has served as general counsel for hospitals and medical practices where he has assisted with risk management, contract negotiation, and corporate planning.

Mr. George lives in Denver and enjoys skiing, golfing, and exploring Colorado's mountains with his girlfriend and Bernese Mountain Dog.
