Joey Carucci is an associate in the firm's Real Estate Group, where his practice focuses on real estate development and commercial leasing. In addition to his transactional experience, Joey has also represented both plaintiffs and defendants in all aspects of civil litigation, which gives him a practical perspective and allows him to provide effective legal advice to prevent unnecessary litigation. Prior to joining Messner Reeves, Joey represented homeowners in disputes with neighbors and Homeowners Associations involving claims for violations of the Davis-Stirling Act, breach of governing documents, and nuisance. Joey began his career working on the business side of real estate transactions before transitioning to litigation at boutique firms in Pasadena and Beverly Hills, where he handled multi-million-dollar cases involving breach of contract, partnership disputes, and commercial landlord-tenant disputes.

Joey graduated from Stanford University with his B.A. in English before obtaining his J.D. from University of California College of the Law, San Francisco (formerly UC Hastings). In law school, Joey served as an articles editor on the Hastings Constitutional Law Quarterly.
